White Peony

White tea comes from unopened buds and the youngest two leaves. Picked early in Spring when the buds are new, it is the least processed of all teas

$6

Sencha

Our Sencha is a Shincha, which literally means "new tea" or something like "the first-picked tea" and is characterised by its fresh aroma and sweetness

$5

Yunnan Green

Yunnan Province in China's south-west has produced tea for at least two thousand years. This particular high grown tea displays slightly smoky, grassy and vegetal flavours

$5

Lapsang Souchong

This black tea, made of the fourth and fifth leaves is traditionally smoked for many hours over pine wood fires in order to impart a distinctive smoky flavour

$6

Kanyam Nepalese

Kanyam Tea Estate is situated in the Ilam district of Nepal. This region is adjacent to the famed Indian tea growing region of Darjeeling. The terroir of the two regions is almost identical
